COURSE OVERVIEW

This course aims to support JDP students in writing their dissertation proposals along with adopting strategies that improve their writing process.

Student Learning Outcomes

In this course students will...

- Create and sustain organizational conditions that promote socially just and equitable learning environments.
- Use evidence-based decision-making.
- Generate and use applied research.
- Exhibit leadership skills and dispositions to positively impact organizational culture and practice.

Future studies is a multi-disciplinary approach to understanding change in the context of the future. It draws from a wide variety of fields including economics, engineering, sociology, politics, systems theory, creativity, and community building, to name a few. Future studies is not about predicting the future but rather about considering possible alternative futures, and then identifying the indicators that suggest which way the future may unfold. This approach is used to help educational and other organizations come up with more creative and innovative strategies and to better understand the future needs of their students.

This course is designed to provide students with an opportunity to:

- intentionally and thoughtfully consider one's understanding of the future in the context of leadership practices;
- produce forecasting data and analysis to inform their dissertation;
- work as collaborative thought leaders with their peers.

CSUSM School of Education Mission

The mission of the School of Education community is to collaboratively transform education.

We:

- Create community through partnerships
- Promote and foster social justice and educational equity
- Advance innovative, student-centered practices
- Inspire reflective teaching and learning
- Conduct purposeful research
- Serve the School, College, University and Community

Basic Tenets of CSUSM School of Education Conceptual Framework

- Student centered education
- Research and theory specific to the program field inform practice
- Connections and links between coursework and application
- Strong engagement between faculty and candidates
- Co-teaching clinical practice
- Culturally responsive pedagogy and socially just outcomes

CSUSM School of Education attendance policy

Students must participate in 80% of the course sessions to receive credit for this course. Additional absences may further impact the course grade. If the absence is predictable (e.g. professional obligation), the student should inform the instructor ahead of time. If the absence is unanticipated, the student should initiate contact with the instructor as soon as possible. Notification of an absence does not constitute an excuse.

Students with Disabilities Requiring Reasonable Accommodations

Students with disabilities who require reasonable accommodations must seek approval for services by providing appropriate and recent documentation to the Office of Disability Support Services (DSS). This office is in Craven Hall 4300, contact by phone at (760) 750-4905, or TTY (760) 750-4909. Students authorized by DSS to receive reasonable accommodations should meet with their instructor during office hours. Alternatively, in order to ensure confidentiality, in a more private setting.

CSUSM Academic Honesty Policy

“Students will be expected to adhere to standards of academic honesty and integrity, as outlined in the Student Academic Honesty Policy. All written work and oral assignments must be original work. All ideas/materials that are borrowed from other sources must have appropriate references to the original sources. Any quoted material should give credit to the source and be punctuated with quotation marks. Students are responsible for honest completion of their work including examinations. There will be no tolerance for infractions. If you believe there has been an infraction by someone in the class, please bring it to the instructor’s attention. The instructor reserves the right to discipline any student for academic dishonesty in accordance with the general rules and regulations of the university. Disciplinary action may include the lowering of grades and/or the assignment of a failing grade for an exam, assignment, or the class as a whole.”

OUR LEARNING COMMUNITY

The following Community Agreements and Teaching/Learning philosophy will serve as the foundational principles by which we relate to each other as we learn together. As a community, we can add specifics to these principles as we need.

Community Agreements

- We speak from our own experience
- We are open to hearing others
- We share air time
- We are willing to have our thinking challenged
- We respect confidentiality
- We share experiences that are issue focused, not necessarily who said it or where
- Each of us participates using a “value added” approach by expanding upon ideas, providing examples, and/or expressing a different perspective.

REQUIRED COURSE TEXT

Belcher, W. (2019). Writing your journal article in 12 weeks: A guide to academic publishing success (2nd ed.).

COURSE READINGS

All course readings are provided in Cougar Courses.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

- 1. Face-to-Face Class Participation (60 points): Your attendance and active participation during face-to-face meetings are essential to achieving the student learning outcomes for this course. Students are expected to come prepared to write, participate in classroom activities, and engage in meaningful conversations that support the further development of targeted knowledge and skills.
- 2. Pre- and Post-conversations in Cougar Courses (60 points): Write a pre-conversation by synthesizing reading/listening/watching resources prior to class and post the conversation by Sunday, 11:55pm two days before class. Then, following our class, write a post-conversation by synthesizing conversation and information learned in class by the Sunday following.
- 3. Write and Submit a Journal Article (60 points): Using our course text, you shall write and submit a journal article using your dissertation proposal as a foundation. Adding to this document, you shall incorporate the future studies literature and resources from this course. The requirement is to submit rather than be accepted; however, it is hoped that your article will be published, if not this first submission, upon subsequent revisions beyond the scope of this class.

If you are unable to submit an assignment by the due date, it is your responsibility to contact the instructor before the due date. This rubric below represents general guidelines we will use to evaluate your work. As a doctoral candidate it is critical that you communicate your ideas through multiple formats. The written word is a powerful demonstrator of your knowledge, skills and disposition. Therefore, we hold high expectations of your performance and we are committed to providing you with useful and meaningful feedback that will support your learning and continued development as an educational leader.
