Symposium

on Student Research, Creative Activities, & Innovation*

March 1, 2013

*Formerly Known as the Student Research Competition

The Symposium on Student Research, Creative Activities, and Innovation is an opportunity for students to present investigative projects from course or independent study activities to faculty and peers. The symposium provides an excellent opportunity to practice presentation skills while sharing your knowledge, insights, and learning.

Science, social science, or applied research projects should include a clear purpose, methodology, and an original interpretation of results.

Humanities projects should involve an inquiry or investigation that makes an original intellectual or creative contribution.

Creative Arts and Design projects should involve an audio and/or visual record of a performance or creative activity that includes an artistic statement or aesthetic context underlying an interpretation of the material.
