DESCRIPTION

This course focuses on the pluralistic nature of society reflected in the contemporary school. A variety of approaches will facilitate students' learning about the multifaceted aspects of pluralism. Highly refined oral and written communication, information literacy, and appropriate use of technology are required of professional educators, therefore they are stressed as methods for completing course requirements.

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION MISSION STATEMENT

The mission of the College of Education Community is to collaboratively transform public education by preparing thoughtful educators and advancing professional practices. We are committed to diversity, educational equity, and social justice, exemplified through reflective teaching, life-long learning, innovative research, and ongoing service. Our practices demonstrate a commitment to student centered education, diversity, collaboration, professionalism, and shared governance. (adopted by COE Governance Community October, 1997)

INFUSION

In 1992, the College of Education voted to infuse Cross-cultural, Language and Academic Development (CLAD) competencies across the curriculum. The CLAD competencies are attached to the syllabus and the competencies covered in this course are highlighted.

GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS

Outcomes and Standards: The context for, and scope of this course is aligned with standards for the Cross-cultural Language and Academic Development (CLAD) endorsement, as articulated by the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing (CTC), and as approved by the faculty of the College of Education in development of the program approval documents. Further consideration has been given to the alignment of standards for multicultural education as articulated by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE), the Interstate New Teacher Assessment and Support Consortium (INTASC), and the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards (NBPTS). Emphasis is placed on learning outcomes (what you know and can demonstrate) rather than on inputs (putting in "seat time", meeting minimum criteria for assignments, checking off tasks and activities), and how these outcomes correspond to your potential to enhance student learning as a new teacher.

Academic Honesty: It is expected that each student will do his or her own work, and contribute equitably to group projects and processes. If there is any question about academic honesty, consult the University Catalog.

Appeals: Every student has the right to appeal grades, or appeal for redress of grievances incurred in the context of any course. Disputes may be resolved informally with the professor, or through the formal appeal process. For the latter, consult Dr. E. Oliver, Associate Dean.

Ability: Every student has the right to equitable educational consideration and appropriate accommodation. Students having differing ability (mobility, sight, hearing, documented learning challenges, first language/English as a second language) are requested to contact the professor at the earliest opportunity. Every effort will be made to accommodate special needs. Students are reminded of the availability of Disabled Student Services, the Writing Center, technology assistance in the computer labs, and other student support services available as part of reasonable accommodation for special needs students.

Students with Disabilities Requiring Reasonable Accommodations. Students are approved for services through the Disabled Student Services Office (DSS). This office is located in Craven Hall 5205, and can be contacted by phone at (760) 750-4905, or TTY (760) 750-4909. Students authorized by DSS to receive reasonable accommodations should meet with their instructor during office hours or, in order to ensure confidentiality, in a more private setting.

The Governance Community of the College of Education adopted the following policy on 12/19/97:

COLLEGE ATTENDANCE POLICY

Due to the dynamic and interactive nature of courses in the College of Education, all students are expected to attend all classes and participate actively. At a minimum, students must attend more than 80% of class time, or s/he may not receive a passing grade for the course at the discretion of the instructor. Individual instructors may adopt more stringent attendance requirements. Should the student have extenuating circumstances, s/he should contact the instructor as soon as possible.

ATTENDANCE AND PARTICIPATION

The course deals with complex material processed in a variety of ways. Structured interactions, group processes, oral presentations, guided discussion of readings, and self-disclosure exercises are the norm. Students are expected to have read assigned materials by the date indicated in the syllabus, and should be prepared to discuss readings individually or in variously structured groups. The degree of your engagement in these processes forms the basis for points assigned. Due to the fast paced and highly interactive nature of the course, regular attendance and full participation are expected: teaching and learning is difficult (if not impossible) if one is not present for and engaged in the process. Therefore, the above College Attendance Policy is amplified as follows: 1. Missing more than 1 class meeting will result in the reduction of one letter grade. 2. Arriving late or leaving early on more than two occasions will result in the reduction of one letter grade. 3. Illness and emergency circumstances will be considered/negotiated on a case-by-case basis. These measures should not be considered punitive, as students are expected to establish appropriate personal, academic and career-ladder priorities. Therefore these measures should be viewed as taking appropriate individual responsibility for one's own learning in a democratic, collaborative and reciprocal-learning environment.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

The purposes of this course are threefold:

- to expand and refine students' knowledge about the diversity that is a part of today's public schools and communities;
- to provide a safe academic environment for reflection on, and discussion of, the complex ways in which pluralism is a part of educational contexts;
- to provide support to all students who represent national, state and regional diversity.

GRADING

Grading Scale: A=100-96, A-=95-91, B+=90-86, B=85-81, B-=80-76, C+=75-71, C=70-66, C-=65-51, D=50-46, F=545 or lower.

Submission Schedule: Work submitted late, but within one week of the due date will be reduced by one letter grade. Work received over one week late receives no credit.

Grading Emphasis: Each written assignment will be graded approximately 80% on content and context (detail, logic, synthesis of information, depth of analysis, etc.), and 20% on mechanics (grammar, syntax, spelling, format, uniformity of citation, etc.). All citations, where appropriate, will use APA format. Consult Library Services for the Manual of Citation of the American Psychological Association, or <www.apastyle.org/index.html>

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

NOTE: I RESERVE THE RIGHT TO CHANGE, ADD TO, OR DELETE ANY AND ALL MATERIAL FROM THE COURSE.

This class will be structured as a graduate-level seminar. As such, we will read, write and discuss the materials. The success of a seminar is dependent upon each and every participant being prepared. However, discussion need not consist of only sitting around a table and talking. Multiple approaches, methods, and teaching experiences are a necessary strategy to accommodate learning given the possibility of various learning styles. The class will be divided into groups. Each group will be responsible for presenting and leading class discussion on various topics.

My role will be to “facilitate” the discussion and to intervene as necessary to promote the topic. I do not intend to lecture each week, or to be the focus of the class. You will work to develop your Knowledge Base through reading the assigned material (to develop a basic understanding of the subject matter), present it to the class (to develop your expertise), and lead the class discussion (to develop confidence in your KB and skills). In effect, you will have many opportunities to “empower” yourself--i.e. to use the tools which are before you to try out new ideas.

The theme of our course will be the exploration of ourselves and our classrooms. We will address three main questions: 1) Who am I?; 2) What is culturally relevant teaching?; and 3) How can I transform my classroom curriculum and practice? While seemingly straightforward and direct, these questions will be complex as each individual explores his/her own experiences, beliefs, attitudes and skills. We will delve into numerous issues including equity, differentiated instruction, educational politics, supports and constraints in classrooms, standardized testing, and power. These are just a few topics that are likely to arise in discussions. But they provide a starting point for our learning community. I look forward to our journey.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Assignments:

All assignments are due on the dates indicated. Assignments must be typewritten/word processed, double-spaced and with standard margins. It is expected that all assignments will reflect university-level composition and exposition. Use of electronic spelling and grammar checking is encouraged.

1. Attendance and Participation	15 points
2. Reading response reviews	15 points
3. "Hot Topics" in Education	10 points
4. Book Review	30 points
5. Multicultural Bibliography	30 points

1. Attendance and Participation. (15%) As graduate students, you are expected to take an active role in class and class activities. The quality of this course rests on the quality of YOUR participation. Toward this end, you are expected to attend every class.

2. Reading Response Reviews (15%). Periodically, you will be asked to write your reaction to any of the readings assigned prior to the due date. Your review should demonstrate your "thinking" about what it is you have read (it should not be merely a summary). This is an opportunity for you to present your perspective on the topic, share your experiences, struggle with ideas. At the end, construct one question that emerges from what you've read and your reaction to what you've read. Each review must be, at a minimum, 3 pages. It will be handed in at the beginning of class and/or be the basis for initial class discussion.

3. Hot Topics in Education (10%). Each student will have the opportunity to present a "hot topic" in education of his/her choosing to the class. Each student will present their topic and then guide a short discussion with the class (approximately 15 minutes).

4. Book Review (30%). I have listed four books for your consideration above. This assignment asks that you choose one of the four books to review. You, and those who have read the same book as you, will be asked to engage in a discussion of the book. Each group will have 30 minutes in which to conduct their discussion (15%). The group has complete control over how they want to conduct this review. However, it should provide a BRIEF summary of what the book was about. Each individual will also provide a three-page review of the book that should highlight key ideas, questions that emerged, and implications for teaching (15%).

5. Multicultural Bibliography (30%) In small groups (2-4 per group), students will collect multicultural resources on a specified topic which they and their colleagues can use in their classrooms, their schools, their communities. Each group will prepare an annotated bibliography for each resource in their presentation, and share their annotations with everyone in the class (either electronically or in hardcopy). Each group will prepare a 20-30 minute presentation and discussion for the class based on the topic and the resources they have selected for that topic.
