of the program approval documents. Further consideration has been given to the alignment of standards for multicultural education as articulated by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE), the Interstate New Teacher Assessment and Support Consortium (INTASC), and the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards (NBPTS). Emphasis is placed on learning outcomes (what you know and can demonstrate) rather than on inputs (putting in “seat time”, meeting minimum criteria for assignments, checking off tasks and activities), and how these outcomes correspond to your potential to enhance student learning as a new teacher.

Ability

Every student has the right to equitable educational consideration and appropriate accommodation. Students having differing ability (mobility, sight, hearing, documented learning challenges, first language/English as a second language) are requested to contact the professor at the earliest opportunity. Every effort will be made to accommodate special needs. Students are reminded of the availability of Disabled Student Services, the Writing Center, technology assistance in the computer labs, and other student support services available as part of reasonable accommodation for special needs students.

If you believe there has been an infraction by someone in the class, please bring it to the instructor’s attention. Assignments (100 points)

Personal History: Examining your own culture (15 points)

Using at least three examples of cultural characteristics listed in the first class, write a narrative essay about your cultural characteristics. Reflect on your own experiences in terms of your family background and other factors determined by your circumstances and upbringing. Include how you believe these qualities will help you as a teacher when relating to your future students. Approximately 3 double-spaced, typed pages.

Family Background Assignment: (15 points)

By researching and studying one's own background, it is possible to gain an appreciation about ways in which we share many similarities and differences. In this assignment you are to construct a "family tree" that includes as much information as you can gather about three generations of your family, including religious affiliation, ethnicity, culture, language(s), country of origin, education/occupation and any other information you think is of interest and value. The format you use to illustrate the information is up to you. It can be as formal as genealogical tree or informal as a narrative. A particularly useful tool may be the free downloadable software Inspiration. The depth of this report is somewhat limited by time constraints, personal resources and any family information you may have collected prior to this assignment.

Those who are from families with no information on family lineage may confer with the professor to do an alternate assignment.

Journal (15 points)

Each week you will write a half page to a page responding to a reflection topic posed by the professor. You will keep these in a binder and present them to the professor for review at the end of week 7 and week 14.

Final Presentation (20 points total)

Written Paper (10)

In heterogeneous groups of 3-5 students, you will develop a research paper on a multicultural topic related to the course content, which you will formally present to the class. Your research should include at least 3 sources from the ERIC database, at least 3 sources from the Internet, at least 3 print media sources, and at least one of the texts used in class. References must be exclusive of one another. The group's paper will include:

1. a cover page listing the title, a 2-3 paragraph/200 word abstract, full names of all group members
2. a 10 page narrative that describes the issue, including its historical context,
3. a description of why the issues is significant in the field of education,
4. your position on the issue and why you have taken that position,
5. a defense (rationale) for taking the position with appropriate references,
6. a conclusion regarding the issue, with recommendations for action,
7. an annotated bibliography of all references consulted, and
8. attachments, such as your visual aids for the presentation, graphic organizers, or any supplementary material developed to enhance student learning.

Oral Presentation (10)

Your group presentation will be approximately 20 minutes in length. Your group will present a synopsis of your issue, accompanied by appropriate visual, aural and or tactile aides. The mode of presentation may include skits, simulations, debate, Socratic dialogue, or some other form of multi-modal presentation. You are cautioned NOT to read from the text of your paper. In addition to the 20 minute presentation, you will plan to respond to questions for no more than 10 minutes. Therefore, your group should be prepared to be "on" for 1/2 hour. It is a group responsibility to practice and time the presentation and Q & A session. At the time of your presentation, you will provide each classmate and the professor with your abstract.

Hot Topics (10 points)

You will clip articles and download news concerning hot topics in education related to cultural diversity in schools. You will be assigned a class session to share your 2-3 hot topics.

Possible Topics for Group Research Paper

- 1) What is Prop 227, and how does it affect learning in schools today?
- 2) Working with the parents of diverse children.
- 3) Should we educate the children of undocumented workers? Why or why not?
- 4) Gangs in schools
- 5) Brown vs. Board of Education, Lau vs. Nichols: a history and current implications
- 6) What are current educational issues related to gender and sexuality?
- 7) How have school districts handled violence and implemented intercultural conflict education?

Outcome Assessment (15 points)

This is your opportunity to examine your own learning. You will select the most important learning you have acquired during the course. You will write a 1-2 page paper describing:

- (1) what you learned,
- (2) how you knew you were learning something of significance (assessing your own learning),
- (3) how this will shape your attitudes and behaviors as a teacher.
