Students create a research agenda and develop skills needed in proposal writing: development, organization and coherence, conceptualization of research design, and attention to audience and writing style.

GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS

CSUSM School of Education attendance policy

Students must participate in 80% of the course sessions to receive credit for this course. Additional absences may further impact the course grade. If the absence is predictable (e.g. professional obligation), the student should inform the instructor ahead of time. If the absence is unanticipated, the student should initiate contact with the instructor as soon as possible. Notification of an absence does not constitute an excuse.

CSUSM Accommodation Services

Students with disabilities requiring reasonable accommodations are approved for services through the Disabled Student Services Office (DSS). This office is located in Craven Hall 5205, and can be contacted by phone at (760) 750-4905 or TTY (760) 750-4909. Any quoted material should give credit to the source and be punctuated with quotation marks.

Students are responsible for honest completion of their work including examinations. There will be no tolerance for infractions. If you believe there has been an infraction by someone in the class, please bring it to the instructor's attention. The instructor reserves the right to discipline any student for academic dishonesty in accordance with the general rules and regulations of the university. Disciplinary action may include the lowering of grades and/or the assignment of a failing grade for an exam, assignment, or the class as a whole."

OUR LEARNING COMMUNITY

The following Community Agreements and Teaching/Learning philosophy will serve as the foundational principles by which we relate to each other as we learn together. As a community, we can add specifics to these principles as we need.

Community Agreements

- We speak from our own experience
- We are open to hearing others
- We share air time
- We are willing to have our thinking challenged
- We respect confidentiality
- We share experiences that are issue focused, not necessarily who said it or where
- Each of us participates using a "value added" approach by expanding upon ideas, providing examples, and/or expressing a different perspective.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

As adult learners it is assumed that you will read the texts and articles critically, develop questions and analyses, and complete the written assignment that will facilitate your own learning and class discussions. It is assumed that all students will work to their highest level since mastering research skills will enable you to conduct and complete a high quality dissertation.

Participation (40%)

Your attendance and active participation are essential to achieving the student learning outcomes for this course. Students are expected to come prepared to discuss the readings and to engage in challenging conversations that support the further development of one's understanding of research and academic voice. Students must bring the textbook with them to every class.

Qualitative Study Proposal—Due March 20 by 11:55PM (60%)

As part of this assignment, you will write a qualitative study proposal that demonstrates your understanding of how to design a qualitative study to answer a set of research questions related to the topic you would like to investigate in your dissertation. The paper should include the following elements:

- 1. Problem Statement: A description of the topic you want to study. Provide a rationale for why this is an important topic to study. Make sure to identify the gap in the current literature about your topic and how your study will fill that gap.
- 2. Literature Review: A brief review of existing research on your specific topic. Make sure to identify areas of research related to your topic with subsections as appropriate.
- 3. Theoretical Framework: A set of assumptions that inform your topic and guide the research questions of your qualitative research study and potentially your data analysis.
- Research Questions: A set of questions you plan to investigate as part of your proposed qualitative study.
- 5. Methodology: A discussion of the design of your qualitative study that is best suited to answer your research questions. The methodology section needs to have the following subsections: participants, procedures, data collection, and data analysis. You must include a table with the list of research questions, data sources, and analysis that demonstrates the alignment between research questions and the design of your study.

Your qualitative study proposal should be at least 1500 words. You will create your proposal in a Google Document, and will share it with me at ssiyahhan@gmail.com. More information will be provided in class.
