COURSE DESCRIPTION

Considers the social, cultural, cognitive, emotional, linguistic, and behavioral development of children and adolescents from multidisciplinary, multicultural, and applied perspectives. Students will learn major theories of development in order to apply that knowledge to their work in evidence-based services and programs for children and youth. Includes a field experience component through which students will consider how their in-class learning is enacted in the lived experiences of children and youth. Special attention is given to identifying multicultural and socio-cultural influences on development. May not be taken for credit by students who have received credit for EDUC 496-1.

REQUIRED TEXTS, MATERIALS AND/OR ACCOUNTS

Required Texts

There is no text required to be purchased. Instead, articles from academic researchers and field practitioners are required and can be accessed in the Cougar Courses container for this course.

Cougar Courses

All students must regularly access the Cougar Courses container associated with this class.

COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Describe the main principles of cognitive development, information processing, and sociocultural theory in order to identify how each is manifested in the lives of children and youth
2. Use the field experience to demonstrate how academic theory contributes to understanding observed differences in socially, culturally, and linguistically diverse children and youth
3. Understand and then evaluate the ways in which academic theory is applied within the realms of health, human services, and education
4. Apply knowledge gained from the field experience when considering influences such as environment, culture, family/sibling/friend relationships on the development of thought and reasoning
5. Create an understanding of what various theoretical constructs actually mean in the "real life" of children and youth
6. Summarize findings of empirical research in major areas of cognitive development, including perception, language, memory, conceptual understanding, problems solving, social cognition, and acquisition of academic skills and apply those summaries to understanding the lived experiences of children and youth
7. Understand cognitive and developmental processes and determine how that knowledge can be best applied to work with children and youth in education and other human services fields.

Special Note: Because this course requires a field service component, a background check may be required. It is your responsibility to check with the agency you will be serving and to meet fingerprinting and other requirements to serve as a volunteer. All students should work with the Office of Service Learning to ensure that proper procedures are followed.

Due to covid-19 restrictions for Fall 2020, virtual service learning will be the default. If in-person opportunities exist, students may choose to participate in that way.

School of Education/Course Attendance Policy

Due to the dynamic and interactive nature of courses in the School of Education, all candidates (course participants) are expected to attend all classes and participate actively. At a minimum, candidates (course participants) must attend more than 80% of class time, or s/he may not receive a passing grade for the course at the discretion of the instructor. Individual instructors may adopt more stringent attendance requirements. Should the candidate (course participants) have extenuating circumstances, s/he should contact the instructor as soon as possible. (Adopted by the COE Governance Community, December, 1997). For this course: Students who miss 3 class sessions cannot receive an A. Students who miss 4 class sessions cannot receive a B. Students who miss 5 or more class sessions will not pass the course. Weekly attendance at the service learning site is mandatory; hours cannot be frontloaded or backloaded and must be completed each week.

*Special Note: Because the focus of this class is on an applied understanding of how children and youth develop cognitively, emotionally, and socially, all topics will be taught through interdisciplinary and multicultural perspectives. The topics listed below identify the main idea for each class session and will be discussed through an interdisciplinary lens. We will integrate findings from numerous related fields as we work to understand how theory enacts itself in the real lives of children and youth. To that end, class will meet on Tuesdays only during weeks 3 – 14. You will spend Thursdays during those weeks at your service-learning site to observe ways in which Tuesday's content is operationalized in the lives of children and youth.

GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS

CSUSM Academic Honesty Policy

Students will be expected to adhere to standards of academic honesty and integrity, as outlined in the Student Academic Honesty Policy. All assignments must be original work, clear and error-free. All ideas/material that are borrowed from other sources must have appropriate references to the original sources. Any quoted material should give credit to the source and be punctuated accordingly.

Academic Honesty and Integrity: Students are responsible for honest completion and representation of their work. Your course catalog details the ethical standards and penalties for infractions. There will be zero tolerance for infractions. If you believe there has been an infraction by someone in the class, please bring it to the instructor's attention. The instructor reserves the right to discipline any student for academic dishonesty, in accordance with the general rules and regulations of the university. Disciplinary action may include the lowering of grades and/or the assignment of a failing grade for an exam, assignment, or the class as a whole. Incidents of Academic Dishonesty will be reported to the Dean of Students. Sanctions at the University level may include suspension or expulsion from the University in accordance with the Academic Honesty Policy.

Plagiarism

As an educator, it is expected that each candidate (course participant) will do his/her own work, and contribute equally to group projects and processes. Plagiarism or cheating is unacceptable under any circumstances. If you are in doubt about whether your work is paraphrased or plagiarized, access CSUSM library's Plagiarism Prevention resources. If there are questions about academic honesty, please consult the University catalog.

Students with Disabilities Requiring Reasonable Accommodations

Students with disabilities who require reasonable accommodations must seek approval for services by providing appropriate and recent documentation to the Office of Disability Support Services (DSS). This office is in Craven Hall 4300, contact by phone at (760) 750-4905, or TTY (760) 750-4909. Students authorized by DSS to receive reasonable accommodations should meet with their instructor during office hours or, in order to ensure confidentiality, in a more private setting.

Credit Hour Policy Statement

Per the University Credit Hour Policy: The combination of face-to-face time, out-of-class online, and field time associated with the course totals at least the minimum 45 hours per unit of credit, which means that 135 hours will be spent engaged with this course.

All University Writing Requirement

The All-University Writing Requirement of 2500 words for a 3-unit course is satisfied in the course through the major assignments and in-class learning activities.

Electronic Communication Protocol

Electronic correspondence is a part of your professional interactions. If you need to contact the instructor, e-mail is often the easiest way to do so. It is my intention to respond to all received e-mails in a timely manner. Please be reminded that e-mail and on-line discussions are a very specific form of communication, with their own nuances and etiquette. For instance, electronic messages sent in all upper case (or lower case) letters, major typos, or slang, often communicate more than the sender originally intended. With that said, please be mindful of all e-mail and on-line discussion messages you send to your colleagues, to faculty members in the School of Education, or to persons within the greater educational community. All electronic messages should be crafted with professionalism and care.

Civility Statement

This fall semester brings heightened concerns related to COVID-19, the political climate, social unrest, financial hardships, and many other issues. It will therefore be especially important for all of us to be fully self-aware and self-monitoring to ensure that stress does not negatively influence the way we interact with others. It is the expectation that students' words and actions will be professional, collaborative, courteous, and supportive at all times. Instances of a failure to display a civil disposition that violates our student code of conduct will be directed to the appropriate campus administrator.

To promote students' comfort level as well as protect privacy and confidentiality, there will be no recordings of class sessions by students or instructors. To promote a sense of community, students will be asked to show face and name during synchronous sessions.

COURSE ASSIGNMENTS

All assignments must be completed by the assigned due date. If you have extraordinary circumstances that impact completion of your assignments or have questions or concerns, please contact the instructor(s) immediately. Notification of a concern does not constitute an excuse.

All written work should be word-processed and submitted to the appropriate space in the Cougar Courses container by 11:59 pm on the due date.

Specific instructions for each assignment are listed below, and rubrics for each are found in the top section of our Cougar Courses container. I do not provide sample assignments as I want you to focus on your own construction of meaning instead of attempting to replicate an arbitrary example. Similarly, I do not specify page minimums or maximums so that you remain focused on the content.

Interview with a Youth ~ (Due on Cougar Courses: November 7)

You will identify a child or adolescent with whom to conduct a series of interviews centered on the major theories discussed in this course. Because the focus of this course is on understanding how theories of development apply to the lived experiences of children and adolescents, these conversations will help you to make those connections. This assignment encourages you to think about what various theoretical constructs actually mean in the "real lives" of children and adolescents. When you write about your youth, you will explain how his/her responses to the questions and your interactions with him/her might be understood through the content you are learning in this course. A rubric is found in the CC container for this course, and we will engage in a Writers Workshop before the paper is due.

Interview with a Youth Presentations ~ (Due in class: November 3)

In the spirit of collaboration, you will share the major findings from your Interview with your classmates. This presentation can be a poster, PowerPoint, or any other creative format to be shared during a synchronous class session. Specific directions will be discussed in class, and there are no make-up dates for this assignment. An absence on this day will result in 0 points for the assignment.

Service Learning Analysis ~ (Due on Cougar Courses: December 12)

Because this course focuses on understanding how theories of child and adolescent development are applied in daily practice, you will spend a minimum of 3 hours per week volunteering with a field-based program of your choice. You may volunteer in a public or private school classroom, a hospital, or a social work setting (for example)—it must be a setting that works with children and/or adolescents. You will document your interactions with the youth you encounter and write an analysis that makes connections between and among the theories we discuss in class and your experiences in the field. The analysis should be in narrative form and include specific references to course theories as well as provide examples from your service-learning experience.

NOTE: For Fall 2020, your service-learning experience will take place in a virtual environment. If you would like to volunteer on-site, that is your choice, but it is not expected nor required. Safety protocols as mandated by the CSU and the state of California must be followed. Additional details will be discussed in class. We will discuss potential sites during the first session of class.

Service Learning Presentations ~ (Due in class: December 8)

In order to emphasize the importance of practically applying the theories and concepts from this class to the real world of children and adolescents, you will present the major findings from your service-learning experience. This presentation can be a poster, PowerPoint, or any other creative format to be shared during a synchronous class session. Your presentation must summarize your findings from the service-learning experience and discuss their implications for education, social work, and other human services fields. There are no make-up dates for this assignment. An absence on this day will result in 0 points for the assignment.

Quizzes #1 and #2 ~ (Due in class: October 13 and November 24)

Because research shows that the act of retrieving information on a regular basis aids in retention, there will be 2-3 questions given at the end of each class session. They represent the primary learning undertaken that week and should be used to create as a study guide. Both quizzes will be taken online during a regularly scheduled class session.

Online Learning Activities ~ (Due: Weekly)

Each week you will complete an asynchronous task connected with that week’s goals and topics. Specific directions for each week’s task will be discussed in class and will be found in the Cougar Courses container.

The weekly time commitment for this class is: 60 minutes synchronous instruction, 3 hours engaged with service learning, 5 hours reading, writing, viewing (online learning activities, assignments, studying for the quizzes).
