• AREA Dcg: American Institutions – Constitution and Government

See GE Handbook for information on each section of this form

ABSTRACT

Course Abbreviation and Number: PSCI 100		Course Title: U.S Government and Politics
Number of Units: _3
College or Program: □CHABSS □CSM □CF □Other	ЕННЅ □СОВА	Desired term of implementation: ☐ Fall ☐ Spring ☐ Summer Year: 2015	Mode of Delivery: ☐ face to face ☐ hybrid ☐ fully on-line
Course Proposer (please print): Scott Greenwood		Email:sgreenwo@csusm.edu	Submission Date:2/3/14
 Course Catalog Description: The principles of the U.S. Constitution, and a survey of political institutions and processes that developed under it, including the legislature, the executive, the courts, state and local government, federalism, and civil liberties. GE Syllabus Checklist: The syllabi for all courses certified for GE credit must contain the following:
Course description, co	ourse title and course nun	nber
Student learning outcomes for General Education Area and student learning objectives specific to your course, linked to how students will meet these objectives through course activities/experiences
Topics or subjects covered in the course
Registration conditions
Specifics relating to how assignments meet the writing requirement
☐ Tentative course schedule including readings
☐ Grading components including relative weight of assignments
SIGNATURES 2/3/14 Course Proposer Date Department Chair Department data to the GEC annually.
	,		DC Initial
	Support Do not support*		Support Do not support*
Library Faculty Date		Impacted Date Discipline Chair
	Support Do not Support*		Approve Do not Approve
Impacted Discipline Date Chair		GEC Chair Date
* If the proposal is not supp	oorted, a memo describi	ing the nature of the objection mus	t be provided.

Course Coordinator:Scott Greenwood Phone:X 8050 Email:sgreenwo@csusm.edu

• AREA Dcg: American Institutions – Constitution and Government

See GE Handbook for information on each section of this form

Part A: Dcg American Institutions – Constitution/Government General Education Learning Outcomes (GELOs) related to course content. [Please type responses into the tables.]

Constitution/Government GELOs this course will address:	Course content that addresses each GELO.	How will these GELOs be assessed?
Dc/g.1: Students will be able to distinguish the major features of the United States and California constitutions.	Lectures and reading assignments on the U.S. and California Constitutions/class discussions/paper(s)/news reports by students	Pre/post multiple choice tests of a sample course (in addition to various exams, writing and/or other requirements assigned to the course). Students demonstrate their capability to identify and recognize the importance of various major features of the United States and California constitutions.
Dc/g.2: Students will be able to describe the relationships between governmental institutions and actors and nongovernmental actors such as political parties and interest groups as well as the effects of these relationships on political processes and outcomes.	Lectures and readings on various governmental and nongovernmental actors/interest groups/ political parties/ class discussions/paper(s)/news reports by students/presentations by students	Pre/post multiple choice tests of a sample course (in addition to various exams, writing and/or other requirements assigned to the course). Students demonstrate their capability to identify and recognize the relationships between governmental institutions and actors and nongovernmental actors such as political parties and interest groups as well as the effects of these relationships on political processes and outcomes.
Dc/g.3: Students will be able to explain constitutional rights, including landmark cases that address free speech, religious freedom and racial and gender equality as well as due process rights.	Lectures and reading assignments on Constitutional Rights, with emphasis on the 1 st , 4 th , 5 th , 14 th , 15 th ,Amendments.	Pre/post multiple choice tests of a sample course (in addition to various exams, writing and/or other requirements assigned to the course). Students demonstrate their capability to identify and recognize the explanation for constitutional rights, including landmark cases that address free speech, religious freedom and racial and gender equality as well as due process rights.

Part B: General Education Learning Outcomes required of all GE courses related to course content:

• AREA Dcg: American Institutions – Constitution and Government

See GE Handbook for information on each section of this form

GE Outcomes required of all	Course content that addresses each	How will these GELOs be Courses	GE outcome?	assessed?
Students will communicate effectively in writing to various audiences. (writing)	Research papers/ book reviews/policy assignments/news reports Various writing assignments/small	Writing assignments of various kinds/making individual and group presentations. For example, students are given a list of various topics addressing political issues important to different audiences. Instances of such audiences are policymakers on different levels of government (local, State and Federal), those impacted by violation of civil liberties, those interested and engaged with civil rights issues (e.g. "minorities, women, elderly, gays, etc."), and those representing interest groups.
Students will think critically and analytically about an issue, idea or problem. (critical thinking)	group discussions/general class discussions	various kinds. For example, the students are asked to "explore a problem related to [the Federal government/ government of California] in depth, and propose a solution. They also need to use critical thinking in implementation of the solution.
Students will find, evaluate and use information appropriate to the course and discipline. (Faculty are strongly encouraged to collaborate with their library faculty.)	Various writing assignments and presentations	Writing assignments of various kinds. Students are expected to identify and use scholarly articles and research books to write their papers and prepare their presentations. Students work closely with the course instructor and the Social Science Librarian to identify these sources.

• AREA Dcg: American Institutions – Constitution and Government

See GE Handbook for information on each section of this form

Part C: GE Programmatic Goals: The GE program aligns with CSUSM specific and LEAP Goals. All Dcg courses must meet at least one of the LEAP Goals.

GE Programmatic Goals	Course addresses this LEAP Goal:
LEAP 1: Knowledge of Human Cultures and the	□ No ⊠ Yes
Physical and Natural World.
LEAP 2: Intellectual and Practical Skills	□ No ⊠ Yes
LEAP 3: Personal and Social Responsibility	□ No ⊠ Yes
LEAP 4: Integrative Learning	□ No □ Yes
CSUSM Specific Programmatic Goals	Course content that addresses the following CSUSM goals. Please explain, if applicable.
CSUSM 1: Exposure to and critical thinking about	☐ No ☐ Yes (please describe): The issues of diversity.	course is about U.S./California Politics, and addresses the diversity issues on multiple contexts.
CSUSM 2: Exposure to and critical thinking about the	☐ No ☐ Yes (please describe):The course
interrelatedness of peoples in local, national, and global	looks into political and cultural interaction contexts.	among various peoples, as well as gender relationships and politics in the United States, and California in particular.

Part D: Course requirements to be met by the instructor.

Course Requirements: Course meets the All-University Writing requirement: A minimum of 2500 words (OR 850 words/1 unit, 1700 words/2 units) of writing shall be required in each course. Instructors will include an evaluation of students' written work which assesses both content and writing proficiency. Writing assignments in courses meeting the Dc, Dg, and/or the Dh requirement shall be analytical in nature. As per EO 1061, the course content must include: 1. The political philosophies of the framers of the Constitution and the nature and operation of United States political institutions and processes under that Constitution as amended and interpreted. 2. The rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution. 3. The Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution. 4. Contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved. How will this requirement be met by the instructor? Courses require writing research papers/ policy papers/ news reports, etc. Courses require writing research papers/ policy papers/ news reports, etc. Courses require writing research papers/ policy papers/ news reports, etc. Courses require writing research papers/ policy papers/ news reports, etc. Courses require writing research papers/ policy papers/ news reports, etc. Courses require writing research papers/ policy papers/ news reports, etc.
requirement: A minimum of 2500 words (OR 850 words/1 unit, 1700 words/2 units) of writing shall be required in each course. Instructors will include an evaluation of students' written work which assesses both content and writing proficiency. Writing assignments in courses meeting the Dc, Dg, and/or the Dh requirement shall be analytical in nature. As per EO 1061, the course content must include: 1. The political philosophies of the framers of the Constitution and the nature and operation of United States political institutions and processes under that Constitution as amended and interpreted. 2. The rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution. 3. The Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution. 4. Contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved.	Course Requirements:	How will this requirement be met by the instructor?
words/1 unit, 1700 words/2 units) of writing shall be required in each course. Instructors will include an evaluation of students' written work which assesses both content and writing proficiency. Writing assignments in courses meeting the Dc, Dg, and/or the Dh requirement shall be analytical in nature. As per EO 1061, the course content must include: 1. The political philosophies of the framers of the Constitution and the nature and operation of United States political institutions and processes under that Constitution as amended and interpreted. 2. The rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution. 3. The Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution. 4. Contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved.
Instructors will include an evaluation of students' written work which assesses both content and writing proficiency. Writing assignments in courses meeting the Dc, Dg, and/or the Dh requirement shall be analytical in nature. As per EO 1061, the course content must include: 1. The political philosophies of the framers of the Constitution and the nature and operation of United States political institutions and processes under that Constitution as amended and interpreted. 2. The rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution. 3. The Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution. 4. Contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved. Courses require writing research papers/policy papers/ news reports, etc. Readings and/or lectures include "the political philosophies of the framers of the Constitution and the nature and operation of United States political institutions and processes under that Constitution as amended and interpreted. Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the Constitution of the state and local government under that Constitution. Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the constitution of the state and local government within the feramework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved.	requirement: A minimum of 2500 words (OR 850	policy papers/ news reports, etc.
Instructors will include an evaluation of students' written work which assesses both content and writing proficiency. Writing assignments in courses meeting the Dc, Dg, and/or the Dh requirement shall be analytical in nature. As per EO 1061, the course content must include: 1. The political philosophies of the framers of the Constitution and the nature and operation of United States political institutions and processes under that Constitution as amended and interpreted. 2. The rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution. 3. The Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution. 4. Contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved. Courses require writing research papers/policy papers/ news reports, etc. Courses require writing research papers/policy papers/ news reports, etc. Courses require writing research papers/policy papers/ news reports, etc. Readings and/or lectures include "the political institutions and processes under that Constitution as amended and interpreted." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts a	words/1 unit, 1700 words/2 units) of writing shall be written work which assesses both content and writing proficiency. Writing assignments in courses meeting the Dc, Dg, and/or the Dh requirement shall be analytical in nature. As per EO 1061, the course content must include: 1. The political philosophies of the framers of the Constitution and the nature and operation of United States political institutions and processes under that Constitution as amended and interpreted. 2. The rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution. 3. The Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution. 4. Contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved.
proficiency. Writing assignments in courses meeting the Dc, Dg, and/or the Dh requirement shall be analytical in nature. As per EO 1061, the course content must include: 1. The political philosophies of the framers of the Constitution and the nature and operation of United States political institutions and processes under that Constitution as amended and interpreted. 2. The rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution. 3. The Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution. 4. Contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved. Readings and/or lectures include "the political institutions and processes under that Constitution as amended and interpreted." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved.	Instructors will include an evaluation of students'	Courses require writing research papers/
the Dc, Dg, and/or the Dh requirement shall be analytical in nature. As per EO 1061, the course content must include: 1. The political philosophies of the framers of the Constitution and the nature and operation of United States political institutions and processes under that Constitution as amended and interpreted. 2. The rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution. 3. The Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution. 4. Contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved. Readings and/or lectures include "the political philosophies of the framers of the Constitution and the nature and operation of United States political institutions and processes under that Constitution as amended and interpreted." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes	written work which assesses both content and writing	policy papers/ news reports, etc.
As per EO 1061, the course content must include: 1. The political philosophies of the framers of the Constitution and the nature and operation of United States political institutions and processes under that Constitution as amended and interpreted. 2. The rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution. 3. The Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution. 4. Contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved. Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution."	proficiency. Writing assignments in courses meeting
As per EO 1061, the course content must include: 1. The political philosophies of the framers of the Constitution and the nature and operation of United States political institutions and processes under that Constitution as amended and interpreted. 2. The rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution. 3. The Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution. 4. Contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved. Readings and/or lectures include "the political philosophies of the framers of the Constitution and the nature and operation of United States political institutions and processes under that Constitution as amended and interpreted." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes	the Dc, Dg, and/or the Dh requirement shall be
 The political philosophies of the framers of the Constitution and the nature and operation of United States political institutions and processes under that Constitution as amended and interpreted. The rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution. The Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution. Contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved. 	analytical in nature.
Constitution and the nature and operation of United States political institutions and processes under that Constitution as amended and interpreted. 2. The rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution. 3. The Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution. 4. Contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved. the nature and operation of United States political institutions and processes under that Constitution as amended and interpreted." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government with the federal government, the resol	As per EO 1061, the course content must include:	Readings and/or lectures include "the political States political institutions and processes under that Constitution as amended and interpreted. 2. The rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution. 3. The Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution. 4. Contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under that Constitution as amended and interpreted. Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitution."	1. The political philosophies of the framers of the	philosophies of the framers of the Constitution and that Constitution as amended and interpreted. 2. The rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution. 3. The Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution. 4. Contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved. amended and interpreted." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establis	Constitution and the nature and operation of United	the nature and operation of United States political
2. The rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution. 3. The Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution. 4. Contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved. Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes	States political institutions and processes under	institutions and processes under that Constitution as system established under the Constitution. on "the rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution." 3. The Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution. 4. Contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved. on "the rights and obligations of citizens in the political system established under the Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions and the nature and processes of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes	that Constitution as amended and interpreted.	amended and interpreted."
3. The Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution. 4. Contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved. Peadings and/or lectures include discussions on "the Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes	2. The rights and obligations of citizens in the political	Readings and/or lectures include discussions
3. The Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution. 4. Contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved. Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "the Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution." resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes	system established under the Constitution.	on "the rights and obligations of citizens in the
the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution. 4. Contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved. on "the Constitution of the state of California within the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes		political system established under the Constitution."
the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution. 4. Contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved. the framework of evolution of federal-state relations and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes	3. The Constitution of the state of California within	Readings and/or lectures include discussions local government under that Constitution. 4. Contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved. and the nature and processes of state and local government under that Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes	the framework of evolution of federal-state	on "the Constitution of the state of California within
4. Contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved. government under that Constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitution." Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions."	relations and the nature and processes of state and	the framework of evolution of federal-state relations
4. Contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved. Readings and/or lectures include discussions on "contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes	local government under that Constitution.	and the nature and processes of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved. on "contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes		government under that Constitution."
government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved. on "contemporary relationships of state and local government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes	4. Contemporary relationships of state and local	Readings and/or lectures include discussions
resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved. government with the federal government, the resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes	government with the federal government, the	on "contemporary relationships of state and local cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes involved. resolution of conflicts and the establishment of cooperative processes under the constitutions of both the state and nation, and the political processes	resolution of conflicts and the establishment of	government with the federal government, the involved. both the state and nation, and the political processes	cooperative processes under the constitutions of involved. both the state and nation, and the political processes	both the state and nation, and the political processes	cooperative processes under the constitutions of involved.

• AREA Dcg: American Institutions – Constitution and Government See GE Handbook for information on each section of this form